I. Programme

Understanding different legal systems and their underlying principles in private law has become of highest importance for lawyers wanting to play an important part in the globalised world of today. The Academy for European Private Law offers, in collaboration with the University of Salzburg (Austria) and an impressive number of universities around the world, a programme aiming to achieve this goal.

The programme is organised as a Summer School, in which students are familiarised with the essentials of nearly 30 different legal systems during two weeks. More than 40 professors as well as several Justices from Supreme Courts and/or the ECJ, coming from nearly all European Union member states, but also well beyond that (Canada, Puerto-Rico, Russia, South-Africa, Turkey among others) come to Salzburg so as to introduce students in their respective legal systems and to discuss with the students the main features of those legal systems. Issues which matter to comparative and international lawyers (such as law and language, mixed legal systems, legal transplants, methodology in comparative law, european harmonization of private law or how to read the decisions of various supreme courts) are also discussed with the students and further developed during the daily round tables where several professors confront their ideas and discuss them with the participants. Participants have the possibility to get a more practical view of the differences between legal systems during the workshops where case studies are discussed with the professors in order to show how a the same facts may or may not lead to different results in various legal systems.

Lectures are mainly taught in English, but some lectures are taught in parallel sessions (English, German, French, Spanish, Italian).

The workshops are organised in parallel sessions (English, German and French).

II. Venue

The Summer School takes place in Salzburg (Austria) in the famous Toskanatrakt where the law faculty of the University of Salzburg is located. The Toskanatrakt is situated in the heart of the historic city. Student accommodation is available at reasonable prices and within walking distance of the faculty. For details see the link below VII. Students can buy their meals in the Mensa (student restaurant) at a low price.

WiFi is available in all the university buildings.

III. Social programme

The tuition fee includes an excursion (destination to be determined). During previous sessions, the excursion went to Innsbruck, Hallstat, Wolfgangsee and Vienna. Salzburg, is surrounded by lakes and mountains and offers many possibilities for sightseeing or cultural activities.

A welcome drink and meal are offered on the first night so as to allow students to get to know each other as well as to get to know their professors. During the first week, an international evening is organized where students (and professors) have the opportunity to present in a short, creative and powerful way something typical of their country. This evening takes place in one of the ancient breweries of Salzburg.

IV. Admission criteria

This program is aimed at young graduates and students in law. As a minimum requirement, participants should already have completed their main courses in private law (mainly the law of obligations and contract law). As workshops, round tables and most lectures facilitate an interactive method, participants will be able to discuss various topics with the lecturers, a good level of English is requested (minimum level B2 in the Common European Framework of Reference for Languages). Knowledge of one additional language among French, German, Spanish or Italian is an advantage. Participants should be highly motivated and have the ability to relate to others in a multicultural environment.

In order to guarantee the quality of the program and to favour interactive courses, the number of admissions is limited.

Participants studying in a country where a participating University is established may have to meet additional admission criteria set by the participating University (see list of participating universities under section VIII hereafter), as the number of students per country is also limited in order to make room for students from all countries.

V. Certificate

A participation Certificate will be delivered to participants who attend the courses. The Certificate is equivalent to 15 ECTS in the Lifelong Learning Programme. The home institution of the participant is not bound to recognize these credits. The extent to which these credits are recognized in the home institutions of the participants can therefore vary and it is recommended that participants seek all the necessary information before applying to the program if they want these credits to be recognized in their home institution.

VI. Tuition fees and expenses

As the Summer School is subsidized, only a single fee of 380 EUR is to be paid by participants. This fee covers all costs of participation to the Summer School as well as costs of the excursion and includes also costs of 3 meals at least which are offered by the Summer School during certain activities (such as the international evening, the official opening or the excursion). The fee does not cover travel expenses, nor accommodation or meals (except for the above). Participating universities can exempt a student from the single fee. Such an exemption depends on the sole discretion of the participating University. Participants seeking a scholarship should apply to their home institution or to any other council granting such scholarships.
