

04/12/2023

Giuseppe Martinico (Scuola Superiore Sant'Anna, Pisa)

EU Law and Constitutional Complexity

Matej Avbelj (New University)

The Future of EU Constitutionalism - Anticipating a Paradigm Shift

Marjan Kos (University of Ljubljana)

Accommodation of Diversity: Is the Future of the EU Asymmetric?

Discussants

Nika Bačić Selanec (University of Zagreb)

Giuseppe Emanuele Corsaro (University of Catania)

Chair

Samo Bardutzky (University of Ljubljana)

The recent publication of a volume on the future of EU constitutionalism, edited by Matej Avbelj, the second edition of Giuseppe Martinico's book on the tangled complexity of EU's constitution and the concluding stages of Marjan Kos's project on differentiation and asymmetries in EU's fundamental rights law lend themselves as the perfect starting point for a round table discussion on European Union and its constitutionalism.

Based on these three recent and ongoing works, the key questions we will aim to answer are: how to engage with Europe's complexity ('the knots'), what place is there for differentiated, asymmetric and accommodating approaches ('the skews'), and what are the challenges and decisions ahead of us if we are to ensure that the EU's constitution has a "real and meaningful future" ('the shifts').

Knots, Skews and Shifts of EU Constitutionalism

4 December 2023
14.00

University of Ljubljana
Faculty of Law
Poljanski nasip 2, Ljubljana